NEW AUTHOR TAKES CREATIVE APPROACH TO BOOK SIGNING

Fort Lauderdale, FL., October 29, 2013 - The incredible story of a young man's journey from the ghetto projects, up the corporate ladder, and into 'the yacht,' is told through Kevin Dorival's inspirational autobiography, "The Courage To Believe." The book signing will take place on January 5, 2013 at Fort Lauderdale's historic African Research Library and Cultural Center and is being sponsored by The Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Celebration Committee, Inc.

The author's unique approach to his book signing, which will feature a short play, musical entertainment, raffle giveaways, and celebrity guests, has already generated a noteworthy buzz amongst the locals and on popular social media sites. It is a free event for the community and appropriate for all ages.

In his book, Dorival describes in depth his trials, tribulations, and how he was able to overcome many adversities in life where most people would otherwise give up. You would think defeating the United States Army in a trademark battle to be his greatest victory, but according to Dorival, graduating from Florida Atlantic University while somewhat homeless, on the run from the police, all while trying to clear his name during a homicide investigation, was by far his toughest challenge.

Dorival states, "My job is to uplift the community with courage to believe in their God-given talents. After reading my book, there is no way that you'll ever look at obstacles in your life the same, again."

Kevin Dorival is now a mentor and highly-skilled Internet Marketing Consultant. He experienced what he calls "strongholds;" devices that have been holding back minorities in urban communities for generations. However, critical steps such as graduating from high school, pursuing a college education and becoming successful business owners will give them the ability to thrive and give back to their communities.

Only the first 300 guests that RSVP on his website will be able to attend this extravaganza that you don't want to miss. To RSVP logon to www.couragetobelievebook.com, click on the blue "Play & Book Signing" button, and fill out the form. Sponsor and Vendor forms are also available.
